

Rhode Island Clean Energy & Green Building Intern

The Clean Energy & Green Building Intern will work with several programs CLEAResult delivers on behalf of Rhode Island Energy in Rhode Island. They will learn how utility sponsored energy efficiency programs work and will have the opportunity to participate in home energy assessments, site construction testing and inspections for new construction homes, building energy modeling, developing research and case studies, and creating marketing plans. Excellent interpersonal skills are a must for this internship as the selected candidate will represent CLEAResult to a wide variety of stakeholders including utility clients and customers, industry partners, trade allies and training attendees.

The Clean Energy and Green Building Intern will support the following programs:

- Residential New Construction and Energy Codes & Standards – supporting energy efficient, fossil fuel free construction
- HVAC – supporting increased state-wide adoption of heat pumps
- Income Eligible Services – providing energy efficiency solutions for income eligible residents
- Building Performance Consulting – providing green certification and verification services for clients

Responsibilities include:

- Developing Zero Energy Homes and Heat Pump customer case studies, PowerPoint presentations, educational handouts, program materials and marketing content for website
- Creating marketing plans for 1) Zero Energy and 2) Building Performance Consulting
- Assisting with energy modeling of residential new construction buildings
- Attending on-site inspections of buildings under construction, energy assessments and weatherization contractor QC inspections
- Compiling heat pump performance data

Company Information

CLEAResult is the leading provider of energy efficiency programs in North America. Through the design, development, and delivery of innovative, results-driven programs CLEAResult has helped customers make smart energy use decisions an important part of the way they live and work. Our employees are committed to a mission of delivering these comprehensive programs to help people use energy more wisely. CLEAResult provides expertise to utilities, state agencies, trade allies, homeowners, tenants, and property owners seeking to improve home durability, safety, air quality and comfort while saving money.